

Access is proud to announce the Access Innovation Prize 2012

The Access Innovation Prize is a new initiative that will award 5 lots of US$20,000 to individuals, organizations or networks that have the best actionable ideas of how to use information technology to promote and enable human rights or deliver a social good outcome. $100,000 will be granted in 2012.

Access is a non-profit organization premised on the belief that the realization of human rights and democracy in the twenty-first century is increasingly predicated on access to the internet and other forms of information communication technology.

We are looking for communication technology initiatives from across the world, in all languages and addressing the issues that are important to you and your community. The Access Innovation Prize is designed to discover and reward ideas that demonstrate unique promise, opportunity, and possibility. You can submit a near-to-complete project, improve an existing tool or create something totally new.

Application instructions:

- Applicants are asked to complete their name and email and the following 6 questions.
- Individuals, organizations and networks can apply from anywhere in the world.
- Any intellectual property of the winner will remain his or her property.
- Please email the finished application to prize@accessnow.org with the name of the award you are applying for in the subject line (for example, "Blackout Resilience" without quotes).
- To fill in online application form, please go to <https://www.accessnow.org/prize>.

For more information on the application and the awards, please visit <https://www.accessnow.org/prize>

Personal information

Name:

Email:

Organization:

Your idea

Please select which prize this application is for:

What is your idea and why is it needed? Who will make use of it?

Max 3000 characters.

What is the technology? We're interested in code, bits and platforms.

Max 3000 characters.

How are you making it happen? Who are you working with?

Max 3000 characters.

How will you keep it going: How will you evaluate it and keep the project going?

Max 2500 characters.

What are the risks: Have you done your due diligence?

Max 2500 characters.

What is your track record: What you have done before and how advanced is the idea?

Max 2500 characters.

Congratulations, you're done! Please email the finished application to prize@accessnow.org with the name of the award you are applying for in the subject line (for example, "Blackout Resilience" without quotes).