4 February 2022

Dear Ms. Nwakanma,

On behalf of the Secretary-General, I would like to thank you for your letter dated 27 January 2022, sent on behalf of a diverse range of civil society groups from around the world, regarding the recruitment of the next Envoy on Technology.

The Secretary-General exercises with great care the discretionary authority entrusted to him by the United Nations General Assembly, to ensure transparency and to maintain the institutional safeguards of the recruitment and selection process of senior officials, while protecting the privacy of candidates.

In accordance with the established practice for the selection and appointment of senior leaders, the Secretary-General initiated the recruitment process through a Note Verbale addressed to all Member States, along with a vacancy announcement on the United Nations Senior Leadership Vacancies web page. The Secretary-General made a specific request to Member States for the nomination of women candidates and to the public to encourage women candidates to apply to the vacancy.

Following a comprehensive review of nominations and applications, shortlisted candidates who meet the profile and competencies for the position will be interviewed by a panel of experts and a recommendation will be made to the Secretary-General. In accordance with established practice, all screening and reference checking of candidates, including human rights conduct and conflicts of interest, will be conducted by the Executive Office of the Secretary-General.
